AGREEMENT REACHED IN NORTH CHINA

Temporary Settlement Is Effected At Conference

Peiping, China, Dec. 6.—(P)—A tentative compromise agreement in North China's autonomy crisis was reported unofficially tonight to have been reached.

The Rengo (Japanese) news agency said a temporary settlement had been effected at a conference between emissaries of the Chinese national government and leaders of North China.

This plan, Rengo stated, will be submitted to Maj. Gen. Bmihayao Tada, Japanese military commander in North China, and to the Nanking government and is subject to their approval.

Rengo's report came after 17 Japanese airplanes had roared over this city, center of the crisis, during the day. Chinese circles said the maneuvers were designed either as a demonstration in behalf of the independence of North China or to intimidate the negotiations from Nanking into making concessions.

Creation of a North China commission. It was stated, is provided in the compromise plan. This commission would be given wide powers of self-government and the new Nanking currency reform program, involving nationalization of silver, would not be applicable in the region. Japan strongly opposes the currency plan.

The agreement was reported reached between Gen. Ho Yingching, Nanking war minister, said yesterday to have been warned by Japanese officers to leave North China, and Hsia Cheng-Ying, aide to Gen. Sung Chen-Yuan, military overlord of Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

Gen. Sung had withdrawn from the autonomy conferences.

A spokesman for the Japanese army here asserted that the Japanese and British statesmen are misinterpreting our activities. We have no intention of interfering with the administration of North China.

DR. J. OLIVER BUSWELL PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(P)—Dr. J. Oliver Buswell, president of Wheaton (Ill.) college, entered a formal plea of not guilty to charges of disloyalty to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A.

He made the plea before a judicial commission of the Chicago Presbytery after the commission had denied his demerit to the allegations.

The plea marked the actual opening of his fourth trial as one of the members who refused to dissolve the independent board of Presbyterian foreign missions. The other trials ended prematurely on technical grounds.

The Rev. Dr. Edward E. Hastings, of Joliet, is presiding as moderator.

DENIES REPORT

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(P)—Dr. Walter Meanwell, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, today vigorously denied reports that he had sanctioned a petition to remove Dr. Clarence W. Spears as Badger football coach.

"This story is so absurd as to need no denial," he said. "I shall reserve further comment for our university authorities."

MAY SUCCEED FITZHENRY

Washington, Dec. 6.—(P)—Senator William H. Dieterich (D-Ill.) declined today to discuss his probable recommendation for successor to the late Judge Louis FitzHenry of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

"It is too soon to discuss my attitude," he said. "I won't have anything to say until after I have discussed it with Senator Lewis."

INVESTORS IN DRAKE ESTATE FILE CLAIMS

Witnesses Admit They Knew Investment Was Gamble

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(P)—More witnesses who admitted investing small sums in the Sir Francis Drake Estate Association testified today in the government's trial of 41 persons on charges of using the mails to defraud that they considered the investment a gamble.

One investor today made sure that his claim would be considered in the proceedings in federal court.

H. M. Drake, (943 S. Burlington St.) Los Angeles, wrote to the court: "The Sir Francis Drake estate case is being tried in your court. No where else to address my claim. I am sending it to you."

"I want to present my claim of $25 and interest since January 10, 1921. The document I have in my possession is signed by Mrs. S. D. Whitaker and witnessed by Notary Public Arthur B. Vance at Chicago."

"I purchased my share at Des Moines, Iowa. I am supposed to own one and one-fourth per cent of the 50 per cent share of Florence Ellen Drake. Kindly acknowledge receipt."

Drake is one of the few heirs presumptive of Sir Francis who bears the 16th century Buccaneer's name. Several express agents called as prosecution witnesses to trace the steady flow of money which the government charged amounted to $1,350,000 admitted that they, themselves, invested a little cash.

With evident embarrassment, but no apparent regret, F. M. Chase, an agent at Hartley, Iowa, admitted that he had been in line with many fellows and contributed $10. Chase said his son was also a contributor.

Contributions from Hartley via the express route, it was brought out, reached $3,244.

Pigeon Which Lost Leg In World War Dies At Honolulu

Famous Bird Was Wounded Flying Thru Barrage In France

Honolulu, Dec. 6.—(P)—The world's most famous pigeon which lost a leg flying through a barrage in France with military information for the United States army, died today, aged 17 years.

The heroic pigeon thereby became a war hero and earned the name "John Silver," the appellation of the one-legged pirate in "Treasure Island."

John was hatched on a French battlefield in January, 1918. Before he was many months old he was braving barrages in carrying important messages.

He was wounded while flying from a frontline dugout to headquarters. Men below saw a shell explode near him. The concussion tossed the pigeon upward, then he fell. As the gallant bird dropped, he struggled to regain altitude. Finally he did so, and reached headquarters covered with blood, his feathers ripped out and one foot gone.

The pigeon was stuffed and sent to the aeronautical museum at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Officers Arrive Here With Prisoner

Ival Fister Faces Charges Of Burglary, Larceny Here

Sheriff Kenneth Woods, Deputy Sheriff Wiley Cook and Police Sergeant George Vasconcellos arrived here late Friday with Ival Fister, who is charged with burglary and larceny. The officers brought their prisoner from St. Joseph, Mo., where he had been arrested as a robbery suspect. Fister escaped from the Morgan county jail last September.

St. Joseph police gave his name as John Leonard Bierley, at the time he was arrested there as a robbery suspect. But Morgan county authorities have established his real identity as Ival Fister, formerly of Chicago.

Fister is accused of robbing three Jacksonville homes last summer. He escaped jail by hiding back of a partition on the second floor and dashing by a turnkey who had gone to the cell block to feed the prisoners.

Husband Touches Off Dynamite in Bed; Wife Killed

Salt Lake City, Dec. 6.—(P)—Mrs. Alta Chatterton, 35, was killed today by a dynamite explosion in bed. Her husband, Byron Chatterton, 36, a miner, injured critically by the blast, told Deputy Sheriff George Beckstead he touched it off with a cigarette.

"I did it," Beckstead quoted Chatterton as saying. "We had been quarreling. I urged my wife to go to sleep. I got up and lit a cigarette. I couldn't smoke it very far and took from there one stick of dynamite and walked over to the bed. My wife was asleep. I got into bed, still smoking the cigarette, and placed the stick of dynamite between my wife and myself. "I wasn't scared. I took the cigarette and touched it to the cord on the dynamite."

SECURITIES TAKEN FROM PORTFOLIO

$80,000 Was To Be Used To Purchase Trust Company

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(P)—How $80,000 in securities were taken from the portfolio of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company with intent to purchase the Fidelity Trust Company of Indianapolis was told today at the trial of Gustav Lindquist, former insurance commissioner of Minnesota, on a charge of embezzlement.

The witness was Joseph Balata, Joliet prison convict, an alleged fed-up conspirator of Lindquist and Abraham Karatz, former Minneapolis attorney, who was being tried with Lindquist.

After telling of a plot to gain control of the Central State Bank of Indianapolis to repay funds allegedly embezzled from a Chicago bank for the purpose of looting the Abraham Lincoln Company of Springfield, Ill., Balata launched into the details of another transaction.

He testified a contract was drawn up for the purchase of the Trust Company Nov. 9, 1934, and it was planned to take it over Nov. 23. Balata said Otto Van Derk, a young bank clerk involved in the affair, surrendered to police in the meantime, and that on Nov. 19, Balata was arrested.

Earlier today, the witness described the desperate effort that was made to return $35,000 they had swindled from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, with Van Derk's help. He said they planned to buy a controlling interest in the Indianapolis bank for $25,000, partly in an attempt to placate Van Derk, who, he said, was threatening to expose the whole affair.

Lindquist's name was not mentioned in connection with the deal for purchase of the Indianapolis Trust Company.

Sheriff Cited For Contempt

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—Circuit Judge William R. Hunter of Will county issued contempt citations today for Sheriff Michael Green, his son and Chief Deputy, Gordon Green, and Deputy Alfred Lindgren, when seven of thirty citizens called for jury service failed to appear.

An account of the seven missing men: John Westron, Lockport, deceased July 22, 1934.

John Vincent, Lockport, in a CCC camp somewhere in Idaho.

Joseph Johnson, Lockport, who said he forgot.

Eugene McMahon, Pecatonie, Milton Arnold, Moneta, Malcolm Rance, Plainfield, and August Schroeder, Lockport, who said they had not been served with notices to appear.

Judge Hunter excused the man who said he forgot and the four who said they had not been notified. He ordered the sheriff and his men to answer the contempt citation Monday.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Paris, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—A verdict finding Grover Reed guilty of manslaughter in the slaying of Perry Pine was returned today by a jury in Edgar county circuit court. Judge George W. Bristow deferred sentence.

Reed admitted killing Pine and wounding his own wife, Mrs. Mary Reed, who recovered. He pleaded insanity and the fact his wife had lived with Pine for a month before the shooting, which took place last June. Reed was struck by lightning three years ago, and the defense argued that this affected his mentality.

HE WORKED THERE

New York, Dec. 6.—(P)—James Bezzie entered the shoe store and twirled his pipe. Manager Paul Schermet was counting his money.

He looked. Yelled. Dived out a window. Climber two fences. Called police. Entered nine policemen. Surrounded Bezzie—who dropped his hammer. "What's the matter? I'm the company carpenter. I work here."

3 DESPERADOES ARE CAPTURED; THREE KILLED

Entire O'Malley Gang That Broke Jail In Custody

By Francis E. Barden

Weather, Okla., Dec. 6.—(P)—Three of six heavily-armed convicts, who shot their way out of the Muskogee jail Tuesday lay on morgue slabs tonight as authorities filed murder charges against the others, captured alive.

Dan T. Heady, of Kansas City, Walter "Irish" O'Malley gangster, was shot to death early today by possemen who broke into his mountain home shack hideout near here. He fled the prison break in which an officer and one of the convicts were wounded fatally.

Dewey Gilmore of Dallas, Tex., at law with Heady, was wounded, but recovered. Following Gilmore's instructions, possemen went to a nearby mountainside and found Leonard Short, of Galena, Mo., near death from illness and burns received when fire swept an earlier hideout. He died late today.

Russell Land Cooper, fourth member of the O'Malley mob of kidnapers and bank robbers participating in the Muskogee break, was captured yesterday.

John Blackburn, one of the two other prisoners who joined the O'Malley confederates in the escape, was slain outright just outside the Muskogee jail Tuesday. Don Garrett, the sixth participant, was captured as he returned to the mountain shack after the raid today.

Cooper, Gilmore, Garrett and Mr. Heady were charged with murder in the killing of chief of detectives Ben Bolton. Bolton was shot down Tuesday as he smuggled arms to her husband as he attempted to frustrate the escape.

The charge against Mrs. Heady alibied.

Investigator For Board Of Pardons Locked In Jail

Carl C. Taylor, Former Postmaster Charged With Larceny

Tuscola, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—Unable to post a $10,000 bond, Carl C. Taylor, investigator for the state board of pardons and paroles, was committed to the Douglas county jail tonight to await action by the grand jury on charges of larceny.

Taylor, former postmaster under President Wilson, waived hearing today on the charges which grew out of an alleged shortage of $23,395.73 from the estate of Ruth B. Keal, of which he was trustee.

The grand jury has been called for December 11.

Taylor, a democratic state committeeman from Douglas county, had been in charge of the estate since 1926. The court did not approve three reports of his trusteeship since then.

Taylor was trustee of the estate left by Arthur Koehler, government wood expert from Wisconsin, declared in an interview that wood from the larder would have tracked down the kidnaper and slayer of the baby eagle "even if other clues failed."

He pointed out that the larder was brought to his laboratory as a "last resort" months after the kidnapped babe's body was found.

He had been put on the trail when the larder was first picked up beneath the Lindbergh nursery window. Koehler asserted the work would have been easier because there would have been fewer wood purchases to check at the various lumber mills and distribution points.

New Jersey officials' intimations of a new investigation of the trial and conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann found the source of most of the wood in the latter still unknown, Koehler disclosed.

Only one piece of it—the piece identified as part of the Hauptmann attic floor—was ever traced directly to Hauptmann, the wood expert asserted. Hauptmann was arrested on the strength of the ransom bills at the time employees of the yard were being questioned by federal agents. Koehler said, and the inquiry was dropped there.

No effort has since been made to trace the remainder of the larder. Hauptmann's true skill as a carpenter is a big factor in the case in Koehler's opinion. If Hauptmann were a good carpenter, he probably didn't make the larder, before the job was poorly done, and the larder was made in three sections when only two were needed.

GOLD IMPORTS

Washington, Dec. 6.—(P)—Imports of gold in an ever-increasing tide—have swelled American's holdings to a new high of $10,009,000,000.

Receipts in the week ended December 4 totalled $135,000,000, and brought United States holdings above 40 percent of the world's supply.

The troubled European scene was credited with spurring movement of the metal. $800,000,000 worth of which has been received in the last 12 weeks.

GOVERNOR HENRY HORNER STRIVING FOR SUPPORT FOR A "SECOND TERM"

SOLID SOUTH MAY BE SPLIT AGAINST FDR

Talmadge Says Opening Wedge To Be Driven Next Month

New York, Dec. 5.—(P)—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia disclosed today that the opening wedge in an effort to split the "solid south" against the Roosevelt regime will be driven next month at a Democratic convention similar to the Republican "grass roots" conference.

Governor Talmadge, assailing the new deal as "a combination of the worst elements of communism and socialism," announced a call will be issued within ten days for the convention.

The meeting, sponsored by the recently organized southern committee to uphold the constitution, will be held in Atlanta.

An announcement of the proposed convention was made by the Georgia governor in an interview prior to an address in which he denounced the new deal's spending program, labelled the social security law a "fraud," and called for payment of the soldiers' bonus out of the $4,800,000,000 works appropriation.

"Congress is going to vote to pay the soldiers' bonus in January, 1936," he declared, "and if it is vetoed, they are going to pass it over the president's veto."

"The wise step for congress to take is to pay up a debt by paying the bonus, and stop all of this bondhogging by paying the bonus over the president's veto out of that $4,800,000,000 security appropriation."

"But two and one half billion of dollars into the hands of thousands of Americans in small amounts in every state and every county in this nation, and let it be spent by private citizens in paying debts and improving their business."

"This will bring back more progress and more prosperity to America than ten billion dollars flitted to the winds in bondhogging and its kindred activities."

Wood Expert Says Lindbergh Ladder Was "Real Clue"

Claims Famous Case Could Have Been Solved Speedily

Chicago, Dec. 6.—(P)—The Lindbergh kidnap ladder was put forward today the clue that could have speedily solved the famous case.

Arthur Koehler, government wood expert from Wisconsin, declared in an interview that wood from the larder would have tracked down the kidnaper and slayer of the baby eagle "even if other clues failed."

He pointed out that the larder was brought to his laboratory as a "last resort" months after the kidnapped babe's body was found.

He had been put on the trail when the larder was first picked up beneath the Lindbergh nursery window. Koehler asserted the work would have been easier because there would have been fewer wood purchases to check at the various lumber mills and distribution points.

Prohibit Dates at Chapel Services; Students Strike

Fairfield, Ia., Dec. 6.—(P)—Parsons College students went on strike today against a faculty ruling prohibiting dates at chapel services and assigning students specific seats.

Only eight of the 290 students attending the Methodist institution appeared at chapel this morning. Student leaders, who organized the strike last night, said they would draw up a petition asking the order banning romantic rendezvous at chapel services be withdrawn and that chapel services be reduced from five a week to three.

Ketterman Family Of Kewanee, Ill., Lose Fingers, Toes

Eleven Superfluous Digits Are Taken From Father And 4 Children

Kewanee, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—The Ketterman family was doing quite well tonight, thank you, after losing eleven superfluous fingers and toes in a session of mass orthopedics.

Dr. Hugh L. Cooper, Peoria surgeon who amputated the extra digits, told about it today.

Cecil Ketterman, Wyoming, Ill., farmer, brought four young daughters and himself to the Kewanee Elks club clinic Thursday. They had extra finger and toe trouble. Dr. Cooper gave them local anaesthetics and removed the following:

Mr. Ketterman—one toe.

Betty Ketterman, 10, two fingers and one toe.

Noia, 8, one toe and one finger.

Kathleen, 6, two toes and two fingers.

Luella, 14, one finger.

A subsequent inventory showed each had left exactly ten fingers and ten toes. Except Mr. Ketterman, he preferred to keep a sixth finger on one of his hands. It was no bother, he said, and he could use it as well as the others.

Dr. Cooper said patients were normal except for the pedal and manual deformities. The girls inherited their extra digits from the father, he said. There are many similar cases, he added, although usually the excess fingers and toes are removed shortly after birth.

Workmen Replace Crew Of Rescuers

Stuebenville, O., Dec. 6.—(P)—Workmen replaced rescue crews in the depths of a Warner Collieries Co. mine at Wolf Run today to repair damage caused by a gas explosion, which took the lives of four miners.

Groping through dark side corridors more than 6,000 feet below the surface, rescuers found the dead miners today huddled where they were trapped by the blast, which spared 31 others members of the night shift.

The victims were Joseph Boone and his brother, Isaiah, both of Amsterdam, and Albert James and Robert Russell of Bergholt.

Officials said the men apparently died from shock.

An investigation indicated that natural gas probably set off by a spark caused the blast.

The Warner mine, recognized as one of the safest in eastern Ohio, recently won a district safety certificate.

Approve Grants For Arsenals

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—Gov. Henry Horner announced tonight that the Public Works Administration in Washington had approved grants for a state arsenal and an archives building here, to cost more than $1,500,000.

The legislature last summer appropriated $1,000,000 for the new arsenal to replace one destroyed by fire a year ago and $500,000 for the archives building.

Horner said that by receiving outright grants the state would save 45 per cent of the cost of the two buildings.

The federal government will pay $452,820 and the state $553,468 for the new arsenal. The government's grant for the archives building will be $325,000, while the state will supply $275,000.

Bids will be asked at "the earliest possible date," the governor said.

CLEAN MOVIES

New York, Dec. 6.—(P)—Renewal of the pledge taken a year ago by the Legion of Decency in the Catholic dioceses of the country will be taken Sunday, Patrick Cardinal Hayes announced today. The pledge is in connection with the church's campaign for clean motion pictures.

PLANS TO MEET ROOSEVELT IN CHICAGO MONDAY

Justice Warren H. Orr Being Mentioned As Candidate

By Curtis R. Hay

Associated Press Staff Writer. Springfield, Ill., Dec. 6.—(P)—Governor Horner, striving to get Democratic support for a second term, today said he would confer this week with President Roosevelt and, if it can be arranged, with Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

Governor Horner returned from a Chicago conference with Patrick Nash, co-leader with Kelly of the Cook county organization, announced his situation was unchanged, and said he was going back to have a talk with Kelly.

Meanwhile State Treasurer John Stelle, Auditor Edward Barrett, Supreme Court Justice Warren H. Orr, and state Chairman Bruce Campbell were reported to be in Chicago for a meeting Sunday with the Cook leaders.

Some state house rumors were that the main objective of the meeting would be to "sell" the Chicagoans on the candidacy of Orr, whose home is in Rock Island. One Horner supporter dolefully predicted their success.

The governor has been invited by President Roosevelt to confer with him Monday. The president will come to Chicago to speak before the American Farm Bureau Federation convention and then go to South Bend, Ind., to receive an honorary degree from Notre Dame University.

Ostensibly, all the leaders' presence in Chicago was to pay honor to the president. The fact, however, that they were all either in Chicago or planning to be there by late tomorrow was pointed out at the capitol as proof of a rush to get the political picture fairly well sketched so that it could be shown to the president Monday.

Mr. Horner will meet the president, along with Mayor Kelly, at the stock yards Monday morning. After the speech and a luncheon, he disclosed today, he and the president will confer during a train ride to South Bend. Postmaster General Farley on a recent trip to Chicago said the national party would not act in any way on the Illinois primary.

Mr. Horner's visit with Nash yesterday was a matter of considerable speculation, but the governor offered no information of what occurred other than to say they discussed politics and that he was still a candidate.

He was silent on the possibility that he was asked by Nash, in return for Cook county support, to make certain changes in the administration personnel. Mr. Horner has said he would not replace Republican directors with Democrats and his announcement that his political situation was unchanged was construed by officials to mean he has not changed his mind on that subject.

Firemen Repair Toys

Members of the fire department are asking for a more abundant supply of toys which they may repair and put into shape to distribute to needy children as Christmas gifts. Some toys have already been taken to the fire house, but the enterprise merits a wider community interest and an increase in the number of contributions. The firemen use their spare time in making the toys usable and attractive. It is hoped to have enough toys to supply the children of pre-school age in the families aided by the Nichols Christmas foundation, and to bring Christmas into other homes not so fortunate.

People who have toys their children no longer use would do well to search their attics and rescue the broken relics from idleness. Taken to the fire station these toys will be made into gifts that will delight children who have no opportunity to secure toys of their own. This appeal is made in behalf of the firemen who are eager for more work of this sort and who say they can't get too many toys to repair.

Hauptmann Again

The new interest in the case of Hauptmann, convicted kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby awaiting death in New Jersey, seems rather strained. The visit of the Governor of the state to his cell was a bit melodramatic and calculated to arouse sympathy. The constant effort to secure "new" evidence is far more intense than it would be under ordinary circumstances.

Hauptmann was convicted after one of the most carefully-conducted trials in history. The evidence submitted against him formed a closely-woven web, which the skill of his brilliant counsel could not break down. The jury must have been convinced of his guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt." Yet the trend today seems to be to throw doubt on the case, and the New Jersey Governor is taking a prominent part in the matter. He even urges members of the "court of mercy" to visit Hauptmann's cell and hear his side of the story, which was given during the trial and cannot surely have developed any new angles in the intervening months.

The Profit Urge

There has been for sometime a growing enmity to profits in industry and a reiteration of the belief that the so-called profit system is washed up and should be abolished. But R. D. Webb, who addressed the Rotary club Friday and who represents a large corporation, had another view of the matter.

"Before our corporation could put a single person to work in our community," he said, "it had to go out and hire $5,500 of capital for each employee. That money was put to work building a plant, installing machinery and hiring people. Had there been no capital to hire, there could have been no employment for workers."

"I believe the profit urge to be the mainspring of business. Interest calls capital into operation and results in the employment of people, the payment of wages and the circulation of wealth. The capital that is hired must have a sufficient return, or it will seek other fields."

"The corporation I represent made $11,000,000 profit last year, but it had to sell $600,000,000 worth of products to get it. If a man in a smaller business sold $6,000 worth of goods and realized only $110 profit, he would not be satisfied; yet the big company worked for a profit in the same proportion."

It may be added that profits are spent in the same manner as wages and serve to stimulate business and create new demands for goods. Profits form new capital that goes to work to produce more tangible wealth and employ more labor. A system that does all this is worth saving.

People and Pigs.

Strange as it may seem, influenza cycles appear to follow the same trend among people and pigs. "Flu" is prevalent again this year among the people. Several cases of it have been noted in Jacksonville, and it seems to be the old fashioned kind, attacking viciously and hanging on stubbornly. It puts its victims in bed and keeps them there.

A local veterinary who has watched the cycle for years tells us "flu" is now beginning to appear among pigs, and that it nearly always does this closely following a similar epidemic among people. The pigs have as hard a time with it as do the human beings and of course show a higher mortality.

Influenza is a bad actor, and cannot be given any leeway. It has a way of so completely flooring his victims that they emerge from it with the feeling that they have had the worst illness in their experience. Often it puts them in bad health for many weeks and may leave complications of diseases that persist for years.

Behind Prexy's Back

President James Rowland Angell of Yale suggests that professional football may eventually supplant the college game. If the college game continues to edge over in the direction of professionalism, but he promises that the "big three"—Yale, Harvard, and Princeton—will continue to cling to the strictest of amateur standards, and will never countenance any yielding to the "hired man" policy in college athletics.

These are encouraging words, but their beauty is dimmed by a glance at the record. As of today, two of the "big three" have abandoned the graduate coaching system and have gone out to hire the best coaches available in the open market—both of whom are famous for their uncanon ability to persuade talented young athletes to enroll in the schools where they happen to be coaching.

And if memory serves, the Yale Bowl was just about the first of the great super-stadium ventures of the college world.

County Spelling Match Will be Held Here Today to Select a Champion

Thirty-five boys and girls, already acclaimed the best spellers in grade schools of Morgan county, will come to Jacksonville today to name a champion. Among the 35 is a boy or girl who will spell correctly more words than the others, and will be delegated to represent Morgan county in the state spelling match at Springfield, Dec. 26.

It may be "charivari," perhaps "diphtheria," or a tricky word like "siege" that will stump some of the spellers and eliminate them from the contest. But the boys and girls who are entering the county finals are pretty well up on catch words and also the ones that are downright difficult to spell. They have been through a period of intensive study in preparation for the contest.

Contest Opens at 9:30
County Supt. Victor H. Sheppard has completed arrangements for the big spelling match, which will begin promptly at 9:30 o'clock in the west study hall of Jacksonville High school. Pupils will be accompanied by teachers and in some instances by parents and friends.

The match will be open to all adults who are interested in school work. But the quietness of a school room will prevail as the students tackle the list of words which will be pronounced by the county superintendent and written by the contestants. Winners and runners-up from thirteen preliminary contests will compete. In some instances there were two and even as many as five runners-up in the preliminary matches. All of these boys and girls will try for the county championship.

Hundred Word Lists
A list of one hundred words will be given first. The survivors then will write another list of one hundred, and the survivors of that list will write a third list of one hundred words each in event they are needed to name the champion.

Contestants who earned the right in the preliminaries to enter the county contest are:
Waverly (Township 13-8)—Winner, Mary Louise Sprinkel, West Union; Dale Farmer, Sciota.
Alexander (Townships 14-8 and 15-8)—Winner, Virginia Colwell, Alexander; Agnes Hermes, Prairie College.

Carter Veterinary Hospital Sold to Dairy Association

Producers Will Convert It Into Dairy Plant with Modern Equipment

The veterinary hospital at South Mauwaister street and West Beecher avenue, operated for a number of years by Dr. S. J. Carter and Dr. S. W. Carter, has been sold to the Producers Dairy, Inc., of this city. Announcement of the sale of the property was made yesterday by officials of the dairy company, who stated that the large two-story brick building will be converted into a modern dairy plant.

Dr. S. J. Carter and Dr. S. W. Carter will continue their veterinary practice with headquarters in a frame building which has been erected in the rear of the Carter residence, just west of the large brick building.

Carpenters and brick masons were at work Friday on the former veterinary hospital, reconditioning it and making it ready for occupancy as a dairy. Officials of the company said extensive improvements will be made following plans which were prepared sometime ago and approved by the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

The pasteurization machinery will be located in the exact center of the building on the first floor. Sales rooms and offices will front Beecher avenue. New drives and other exterior improvements also will be made.

The Producers Dairy, Inc., is composed of twenty dairy herd owners of this community, all herds being accredited by the federal government. Howard Stevenson is president of the Producers, C. Carter, vice president, and Ervin Aufdenkamp, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. S. J. Carter and Dr. S. W. Carter erected the building about twenty years ago.

Suppose we get to the point. "Very well, I'm objecting to your visits here. I want you to stop seeing my granddaughter, monopolizing her time."

SCOTT'S face was white. "Does Dana know of your objections?" "She does. We had a talk yesterday."

"Did she agree with you?" Scott's voice was stiff with anger.

"Dana's an impressionable young girl, but she has sense. She told me she knew she'd make a poor poor-man's wife."

Scott's eyes blazed in his white face. "You might tell her for me that she's a little premature in her decision. As I recall, the subject of marriage has never been discussed between us."

He bowed mechanically, and went down the steps. Mrs. Cameron watched him get into his car and drive away.

She did not feel any too comfortable over her victory. That young man had spirit, and it would be a long time before he forgot this blow to his pride. Dana actually had said that about being a poor-man's wife. Of course she hadn't said it yesterday when they were talking about Scott, as he had inferred. Grandmother Cameron had intended for him to infer that. Besides, it all amounted to the same thing. Dana knew she wouldn't be happy depriving herself of the luxuries and comforts her friends had. Yet there was a chance she might be swept off her feet by a fascinating young man. Or rather, there had been a chance. Knowing the proud Stanley stock, Grandmother Cameron felt almost certain that Scott would leave Dana entirely alone from now on.

The girl might mope for a time, but she had pride, too. And soon she would come back, and Dana would forget all about Scott Stanley.

Dana did mope. Mixed with her sense of loss was a feeling of hurt and bewilderment. She had not felt like this over losing Ronnie. There had been an explanation for his behavior. There was none at all for Scott's sudden, inexplicable silence.

WEEKS slipped by. Gradually Dana came to the conclusion that Scott Stanley was just a deplorable male flirt. He had showed her attentions until he was bored. He had said exciting things to her in public, at dances and the club pool—things that had made her feel warm, and thrilled and happy. Then, when he had tired, no doubt he had turned to the more exciting Paula. Without so much as a word of hint as to her bruised feelings, Dana assured herself fiercely that she had only contempt for Scott if ever she had the chance, she would let him know how complete it she despised his type.

But there were times when Dana was stirred by other emotions. A longing to see Scott, a restlessness would come over her. The need for his teasing smile, and his hard brown hand, closing down on her own, would become a torment.

Grandmother had been right about him; he was dangerous. Her own mixed emotions told her this. Occasionally she saw Ronnie. Invariably he looked hurt and miserable, and kept away from her.

Other young men were telephoning, taking Dana to dinner and dances. Ted Stansbury was devoted. Roger Jerome, who was spending the summer with cousins, was openly adoring. He had reached such an abject stage that Nancy had dubbed him "Roger-on-his-knees."

"And he might be a good catch, Dana," Nancy suggested cynically. "I hear the Jeromes are among the upper crust in New York, with plenty of money, too."

Dana didn't want Roger—sure, sophisticated Roger. She didn't want Ted either. Men, she had decided, were disappointing.

The College Club dance had rolled around again. Dana thought of it without interest.

"There's a surprise program that's going to be awfully clever," Nancy told her.

NANCY, for some reason, was in a friendlier mood these days. Not enthusiastically friendly, but the ruffled antagonism of weeks before was missing. Nancy was looking happier, too.

"What kind of program?" Dana asked.

"The entertainment committee has landed a group of vaudeville performers who were big hits in New York all last season. They were on tour and missed a train or something!"

Dana said absently, "That's fine." "All the members will probably turn out," Nancy stated with assurance. "It's not often the College Club does things in a big way, and they'll want plenty of cheers from the home crew."

All the members of the club. Suddenly Dana was tense. Scott was a member and would be there. Not that that made any difference because Dana had been hoping passionately that she'd never see him again.

But just the same, she felt as though a dull weight she had been carrying had been lifted.

"You look simply swell!" Roger said when Dana came down the stairs. "Let me be the first to tell you so."

Suppose we get to the point. "Very well, I'm objecting to your visits here. I want you to stop seeing my granddaughter, monopolizing her time."

SCOTT'S face was white. "Does Dana know of your objections?" "She does. We had a talk yesterday."

"Did she agree with you?" Scott's voice was stiff with anger.

"Dana's an impressionable young girl, but she has sense. She told me she knew she'd make a poor poor-man's wife."

Scott's eyes blazed in his white face. "You might tell her for me that she's a little premature in her decision. As I recall, the subject of marriage has never been discussed between us."

He bowed mechanically, and went down the steps. Mrs. Cameron watched him get into his car and drive away.

She did not feel any too comfortable over her victory. That young man had spirit, and it would be a long time before he forgot this blow to his pride. Dana actually had said that about being a poor-man's wife. Of course she hadn't said it yesterday when they were talking about Scott, as he had inferred. Grandmother Cameron had intended for him to infer that. Besides, it all amounted to the same thing. Dana knew she wouldn't be happy depriving herself of the luxuries and comforts her friends had. Yet there was a chance she might be swept off her feet by a fascinating young man. Or rather, there had been a chance. Knowing the proud Stanley stock, Grandmother Cameron felt almost certain that Scott would leave Dana entirely alone from now on.

The girl might mope for a time, but she had pride, too. And soon she would come back, and Dana would forget all about Scott Stanley.
